Hindu god Shiva was being treated with respect by the audience that were watching the film.. Then there could have been a few little surprises on screen though. For example, when the two gods were trying to have sex, I don't even remember it. Is they even supposed to have sex? If the audience isn't paying attention then it is entirely possible that even though the screen is showing us the scene we haven't yet taken the steps necessary to properly understand what was happening to Shiva.
